

Acknowledgements

William & Mary acknowledges the Indigenous peoples who are the original inhabitants of the lands our campus is on today – the Cheroenhaka (Nottoway), Chickahominy, Eastern Chickahominy, Mattaponi, Monacan, Nansemond, Nottoway, Pamunkey, Patawomeck, Upper Mattaponi, and Rappahannock tribes – and pay our respect to their tribal members past and present.

William & Mary acknowledges that it owned and exploited slave labor from its founding to the Civil War; and that it had failed to take a stand against segregation during the Jim Crow Era.

Course Description

Advanced Russian Study Abroad II (Rusn 312) course is the second part of the intensive and immersive 8-week summer program abroad, which consists of two consecutive courses, RUSN 311 and RUSN 312. Classes meet four hours each day with the instructor and students are expected to devote three additional hours each day to completing assignments and memorizing vocabulary. In addition to coursework, students commit to participate in activities using the Russian language outside of the class environment – in their Russian House dormitory, at the Russian table in the cafeteria, with their conversation partners, and during extra-curricular activities.

The goal for this 8-week program is for students to significantly increase their Russian vocabulary base and to improve listening and reading comprehension, as well as speaking and writing ability in Russian. The ultimate goal for the end of the program is to reach the Intermediate-Mid/High level of speaking proficiency on the ACTFL<sup>1</sup> scale or level 1+ on the ILR<sup>2</sup> scale. At the Intermediate-High or ILR 1+ proficiency level, speakers can communicate on familiar everyday topics by creating multiple sentences; they can talk about past and future events, about other people, and they can ask a variety of questions to obtain basic information.

Course Requirements

There are many things you can do to assure your success in reaching the above proficiency goal. First and foremost is your daily active participation in all class exercises and activities. You need to come to class prepared – having completed the assigned homework, memorized new words, as well as having read the Grammar section for that day/chapter. Second, you must complete all assignments in a timely fashion. Also crucial in this equation is your own attitude toward written and oral work in this course – you must always remind yourself that you need to produce as many sentences in Russian as you can in response to any question and within any dialog exercise.

The class meets five times per week and attendance is mandatory. Daily class participation and both written and oral assignments are essential for your success in Russian and for reaching the proficiency goals mentioned above.

Your Final Grade will be based on many tasks and assessments (see “Evaluation” below), some of which will be written work – essays and tests, while other work will be oral – class participation, as well as prepared dialogs and presentations.

No make-up exam will be given without a medical excuse, and all make-up work must be completed in a timely fashion.
